INITIALS "RFC" BECAME SYMBOL FOR "INFLUENCE"

Corp. Set Up in 1932 To Combat Financial Ravages of Depression

MANY EXPOSURES

Light of Public Scrutiny Turned On Loan After Loan

The still unfolding investigation of the RFC, its myriad multi-million dollar deals and the people who put them over, are described in the following fourth chapter of a series on the "corruption storry" in government.

By Charles B. Seib
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6 — The Reconstruction Finance Corp. was set up in 1932 to combat the financial ravages of the depression. but by mid-1951 its initials—RFC—had become a national symbol for the use of influence and pressure to secure millions in government loans.

Squarely in the center of the Fulbright expose of RFC were three men in or close to the White House: Dapper Donald Dawson, president Truman's patronage adviser; William Boyle, until recently Democratic chairman; and Merl Young, husband of a White House stenographer.

The investigators exposed loan after loan to public scrutiny.

There was the case of 11 million dollars to Texmass Petroleum Corp. to "bail out" investors in what has been called a "wildcatting adventure" in oil.

There were the four million dollars to Waltham Watch Co., which took on James Haggerty, the RFC official who arranged the loan, as $30,000-a-year president, and which later went bankrupt.

There was the $6,300,000 to Cen-

SCOUTING OFFICIALS PREPARE FOR INFLUX

Finance Committee and Executive Board Take Courageous Steps

FOUR SERVICE AREAS

The finance committee and the executive board of Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America, have taken courageous steps forward in setting up plans to meet the great influx of new people moving into the county because of new industrial development.

At a meeting of the executive board and the finance group it was decided to align the council area, secure additional field staff, and build the council service and committee groups to the place where they will be enabled to give top service to any need in any part of the community.

It was decided to have four service areas with a field scout executive in each. The Bristol area including all of Bensalem Township and all Communities in that area except Trevose would be one area. Another would be the Morrisville, Newton, Fallsington, Yardley, Langhorne areas and include Upper and Lower Makefield, Wrightstown, Middletown. Newtown and Falls Townships. The third area would include Trevose, Southampton, Ivyland, Hartsville, Churchville and Lacey Park and also include Upper and Lower Southampton, Northampton, Warwick, and Warminster Townships, and also what is known as Lenape district which includes, Doylestown, New Hope, New Britain, Chalfont and Warrington,

LEVITTOWN EXHIBIT CENTER

This highly unusual exhibit, on U. S. Route 13 between Morrisville and Bristol, will open to the public on Saturday along with mdoel houses in three different price categories. The first honses in this planned community of 16,000 homes in the critical defense area of Bucks county will be available for occupancy early next spring.

FIRST LEVITTOWN HOUSES TO BE UNVEILED SATURDAY WHEN LEVITTOWN EXHIBIT CENTER IS OPENED TO THE PUBLIC ALONG ROUTE 13

At the intersection of new Route 13 and the Tullytown-Fallsington road, the first houses to be built in Levittown, Bucks County, will be unveiled Saturday when the Levittown exhibit center will be opened to the public. These houses are the first ones built in this planned community, which it is stated will have 16,000 dwellings, according to Levitt & Sons, Inc.

The exhibit center consists of three model houses, one in each of three price ranges, and an all-glass display building. It is on new U. S. Route 13 between Bristol and Morrisville and will be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily, including Saturdays and Sundays.

The models, which will be reproduced in a wide variety of elevations, positioning and colors for occupancy starting next spring, are: The Budgeteer, a two-bedroom semi-detached duplex with connecting breezeway for rental only; The Levittowner, a three - bedroom ranch-style home to sell for $9,990 on a 70-by-100 foot lot; The Country Clubber, a larger, more elaborate home to sell for $16,990 on a 100-by-120 foot plot.

The all-glass display building, half a football field long, is a showcase for every item of material used in the Levittowner. All kichen appliances, each keg of nails, gallon of paint, board foot of lumber and electrical fixture is laid out in the exhibit to show the exact materials that go into each housing unit, and how they are used.

A park-like atmosphere has been provided by the planners. The name "Levittown" appears in large letters on the canal bank for all passersby on the nearby highway to see. The bank has been sodded, and trees and shrubs are being planted in number. A concrete sidewalk outlines the parking lot which has been macadamized. Tall standards

BENSALEM BOARD TO ASK AUTHORITY TO ENTER INTO CONTRACT, ERECTION OF A NEW JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Dec. 6—Bensalem township board of school directors decided last evening at its reorganization meeting to ask the Bensalem Township Authority to enter into a contract with the firm of H. F. Everitt, architects, to prepare plans for a new junior-senior high school.

The Authority will conduct a meeting on Monday evening to consider the matter.

The site for the proposed new junior-senior high school would be the tract on Street road, north of Hulmeville road, which the board acquired some time ago.

H. F. Everitt, last evening, displayed to board members rough sketches of the proposed building. Plans call for a structure, one story high, of cinder block with brick face. Estimated cost is $1,400,000.

The basic principle calls for a building built on a quadrangle with an open court, four corridors surrounding the open court.

Facing the proposed building from Street road, the individual would see on the extreme right a gymnasium, and on the extreme left the auditorium, with cafeteria and kitchen at the rear of the auditorium. On the front would be the library and some class rooms, other class rooms surrounding the quadrangle. Plans call for 29 homerooms, and rated pupil capacity would be 870.

In re-organizing the directors re-elected two officers: Robert Vansant as president, and Harry West as vice-president.

In addition to the two directors named, the following were present: William Abel, J. Maurice Tomlinson, and Norman Gaugler.

The board elected Miss Bertha Lake as a teacher in Andalusia school. Miss Lake, a Bensalem township high graduate, will graduate next semester from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, and immediately upon graduation will assume her new duties.

Interment will be made tomorrow in Thompson Memorial Cemetery, Solebury, for baby William Brophy, who died yesterday in Abington hospital a few hours after birth. Tell of Conditions Found on Pacenski Farm Night of Raid

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6—Trial in the Bensalem Township gambling case got underway here Tuesday before Judge Fred W. Davis.

Walter Pacenski, whose farm is located near Hulmeville, is charged on three counts, involving setting up, procuring persons and renting premises for gambling, and he and John Lesnevec, Bensalem township; August Loquintano and Anthony Correale, both of Philadelphia, are charged with five counts, including, maintaining, assisting, setting up, establishing and conspiracy in connection with gambling.

The Pacenski 9-acre farm on Knights road, was raided August 19, when 70 men were found there and $2400 was lying on the dice table which was set up in the barn.

Sgt. Adrian J. McCarr, the Commonwealth's first witness, testified that during the night of August 18, while hidden in a corn-field, he saw a great deal of traffic go in and out of the lane to the Pacenski farm. The cars would blink their

BELLARDO GIVES AN OPTION ON HIS FARM

Sum of $250,000; 41-Acre Tract Adjoins Fairless Hills Section

SHOPPING CENTER

FALLSINGTON, Dec. 6 — A local truck farmer has revealed that he is negotiating with New York interests for sale of his 41-acre farm for $250,000.

The owner, Lewis Bellardo, states that the six-month option covers the tract which adjoins Fairless Hills. He does not reveal identity of the prospective purchasers, but says they are interested in setting up a shopping center.

The farm fronts on U. S. Route 1 just west of the Fallsington road intersection, and also on Hulmeville road. Bellardo's home is on the Hulmeville road.

If the deal goes through, he said he is considering a home in Arizona. He said he would like to operate a vineyard or orange grove there "in the sunshine."

Since the Bellardo family has the roots in this area, he said he might not leave for the West for a while. He may buy another farm to operate temporarily and turn it over to his three sons. Two still are in school and one is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The prposed market center would be convenient to the new housing development under construction by the Danherst Corporation.

"AS PERILOUS AS WAR ITSELF"

The startling report printed below is by an outstanding Democrat and the man who ranks as probably the best informed American on the subject of national finances—Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. It is made available through the services of the Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., of New York City.

Part Two

I know that virtually all members of Congress are concerned about Government economy and that they hear from constituents to the same effect.

But when an appropriation bill comes up for item-by-item consideration, they hear from special interests opposing reductions or demanding increases, and the bureau or agency involved often uses franked mail at Government expense to incite people to bring pressure on Congress on behalf of that item.

Congress does not hear from economy-minded citizens upon such a detail, one of thousands in a huge document.

The last Budget of the United States was a volume of 1312 pages of 9 by 11½ inches, plus a 378-page appendix. There is no reason to expect the next budget to be a smaller book.

Much of the budget would require special legislation before appropriations could be cut. The American people are unaware of the shocking fact that Congress has lost immediate legislative control over most Government funds and property.

The President's budget of last January totaled $71 billion. (Requests for additional appropriations brought the figure up to

The defendant, Walter Lowrey, a native of Philadelphia, and a resident of Croydon for some years, Lowrey, a mechanic, is 40 years old. He was committed to the Bucks County Prison on Sept. 9, 1950.

The murder trial is being prosecuted by District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, of Morrisville. Lowrey is being defended by Frederick Ely Smith, of Doylestown, and Attorney Harry R. Back, of Philadelphia.

Lowrey is alleged to have "pointed out" or "spotted" the Safe Food Markets store at Croydon for two other men who participated in an attempted holdup of the store on May 19, 1950, when Sklar was murdered. The two other men have been tried for the same murder and are now serving terms of life imprisonment imposed on March 12, 1951 and June 13, 1951, in the county court here. MONOPOLY AND TAXES

James Mead implies that many business mergers are in violation of the Clayton Act's 1950 amendment, which forbids purchase of the assets as well as the stock of a company by another company if the purchase would help to establish a monopoly situation. Mead is chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Directing his staff "to proceed promptly" in enforcing the ban, he warns that a "great wave of mergers," the greatest in 20 years, threatens to destroy the "free competitive enterprise system."

Prevention of monopolies does raise a difficult problem, but a factor contributing in no small degree to monopoly growth is the burden of high estate taxes. Even after the modifications made by the last Republican Congress, the burden remains heavy enough to force the sale of many small businesses after the death of their owners in order to get funds to pay estate taxes.

Mr. Mead complains that in the majority of instances the purchasers are large corporations. Naturally, for large corporations, with few exceptions, alone have the necessary capital funds.

In the face of this situation, the President last year was calling for a reduction of present estate tax exemptions and a rate revision to provide "a base for more effective taxation." At the same time he advocated encouraging expansion of small business. The two rules are a contradiction.

Apparently it is now to be made more difficult for the heirs of small enterprises to dispose of them if in the judgment of FTC their acquisition would tend toward monopoly — a judgment which of itself could tend to weaken free enterprise.

LEWIS THE ENIGMA

John L. Lewis may himself be a chronic belligerent or rebel, but he will not tolerate the same failing by members of his union. Harken to his sage counsel and admonition concerning sporadic unauthorized walkouts in the soft coal fields:

"Wildcat strikes cause unnecessary loss of earnings to our members, work hardships on their families, are not beneficial to the communities in which they occur * * * result in strained labor relations which can only lead to demands for punitive clauses in wage agreements, create situations where the employer is unable to meet commitments and thus lose business to competitors and reflect discredit upon the labor union."

Every word, of course, is true and most timely, but it seems an astonishing pronouncement by the labor leader whose World War II defiance of court injunctions against coal strikes was stigmatized by the late Justice Goldsborough as close to anarchy. It's an enigmatical attitude, but Mr. Lewis himself is an enigma.

tral Iron & Steel Co., a subsidiary of a company in which one-time bootleg king Abner "Longie" Zwillman, of Senate Crime Committee fame, was a large stockholder.

There was the whopping 37.5 millions to the ill-fated Lustron Corp., which produced all-steel prefab houses and which had the remarkable Merl Young as $18,000-a-year vice-president.

The Senators questioned the public interest of these and other loans, but more important they made the serious charge that the RFC directors, particularly Walter Dunham and William Willett, were being influenced by personal and political pressure.

They named Donald Dawson, Merl Young and Washington Attorney Joseph Rosenbaum as leaders in the influence ring around RFC.

A declaration by President Truman that their charges were "asinine" brought public hearings, which revealed:

1. That Boyle and Democratic headquarters made calls by the hundreds to RFC directors regarding loans and other agency matters.

2. That Rosenbaum, who had unusual success in his dealings with RFC, paid for an $8,540 mink coat Merl Young bought for his wife, the secretary to the President's personal secretary.

3. That Dawson on three occasions accepted the free hospitality of the lush Saxony Hotel at Miami Beach, an RFC borrower.

4. That Director Dunham, by his own testimony, became a member of a social group including Dawson and Young which "was solely interested in the welfare of the Truman administration" in its RFC dealings.

These developments were topped when later hearings brought out that Democratic Chieftain Boyle received a sizable fee from the American Lithofold Corp., of St. Louis, Mo., shortly after that firm, thrice refused an RFC loan, finally received one.

The same hearing disclosed that Republican Chairman Guy Gabrielson dealt with the RFC on an 18.5 million dollar loan to the Carthage Hydrocol Corp., which he heads. Boyle has since resigned his post, but Gabreilson has retained his.

The most recent development, which is still under investigation, was the disclosure that Mrs. Flo Bratten, vice-president Barkley's secretary, and Charles Shaver, then a Senate aide and a Barkley favorite, visited the RFC in connection with several loan applications.

As the RFC story unfolded, it revealed inter-relationships so complex that the Fulbright subcommittee found it necessary to chart them.

The chart, with its spiderweb of lines, tied Dawson and Young to Directors Dunham and Willett. Former Representative Joseph Casey (D) Mass., was also in the influence chart, as were Young's wife, Loretta, Dawson's wife, Alva, who was supervisor of RFC files, Rex Jacobs, RFC borrower and employer of Young, and a host of others.

Jacobs, whose "Avocado Ranch" in Florida was a popular meeting place, once invited Dawson and Boyle to come into a wildcat oil deal in which Young was already a partner, but they refused. He also was active in a move to turn Lustron over to a group which included Young.

Young and Rosenbaum's father had a joint interest in a Flint, Mich., brewery headed by George Fitzgerald, National Democratic Committeeman. And Nicholas Chase, who represented both Jacobs and Boyle at the hearings, is the law associate of Charles Shaver, now under influence investigation.

George Hobensack, Ivyland, is president of the council. Vice Presidents are Ray Hartman, Quakertown; the Hon. Edward G. Biester, Doylestown and Mr. Bietsch.

In order to carry out the job that must be done to give Scouting to every boy who wants it the campaign will be for a total amount of $57,000.00.

The campaign will open on February 1st and run for a period of one month. Scouters, parents of boys in Scouting and others interested in Scouting are being recruited in each Community to aid in making the campaign a success.

The Bucks County Council is independent of all community chests and united fund efforts which come from outside the county in fund raising efforts and depends entirely on direct appeal to the people of the council area for support.

"As Perilous As War Itself"

4 billion.) Of the original budget, only one-third came under nual review and control by Congress.

This comprised some $19 billion of military and international expenditures and less than $5 billion in domestic non-military expense items.

The relatively uncontrollable remainder consists of such ems as interest on the public debt, grants to States and veterans, nd other commitments made by previous legislation.

For instance, in 1946, Congress appropriated $3 million o start construction of the McNary Dam on the Columbia River, doubtless worthy project which the Government is committed o carry out over a period of years. Ultimately, that dam may ost $270,000,000.

But some 1400 river and harbor and flood control projects ave also been authorized, a few authorizations dating back to 936 and earlier; and the Bureau of the Budget estimates that ver the years nearly $12 billion in appropriations will be equired for completion.

Until Congress reviews them, all these project approvals ave the force of law.

There can be little reduction in Government expenditures ntil Congress regains control over them.

"The time has come," testified Lindsay Warren, Comptroller of the United States, "to reexamine grants to executive fficers of final and conclusive authority over their spending perations, to reevaluate them and to determine when some or ll of them should not be repealed or greatly modified."

Tremendous savings can be made by reduction or elimination of programs specifically prescribed by law. Last year I dicated where $7 billion might be saved by such a process, nd it is an interesting coincidence that the Treasury now anticiates a $7 billion deficit next June.

In the matter of these reductions, the Chief Executive has me responsibility of leadership. To date, such leadership has ot been manifest, for I do not recall a single suggestion from he White House about curtailment or repeal of any of these rograms.

On the contrary we have had a stubborn, persistent demand —backed by high-powered, expensive propaganda paid for by he Government—for socialized agriculture, socialized medicine, ocialized housing and for greater Federal control of education.

The time between now and the reconvening of Congress ext January could be a turning point in the present trend of ur national economy.

Most members of the Senate and the House of Representatives are or will be at home during this period. If they hear n no uncertain terms about the burden which the present tax w and unessential non-military spending put upon them, and those protests continue during the next session of Congress, he steady progress of this country towards financial ruin might e arrested.

THE PERIL THAT CONFRONTS US IN THIS RESPECT S AS GREAT AS THAT OF WAR ITSELF!

First Levittown Houses To Be Unveiled On Saturday

with arching arms provide ample light at night.

Applications for both rent and purchase orders will be taken beginning at 10 a. m., Saturday, on a first-come, first-served basis. Levitt's high speed construction schedule will start in early spring and roll at a rate of 150 homes a week, with occupancy starting in May.

The for-sale homes will be available to everybody, whether engaged in defense plant jobs, or other occupations. The for-rent units will be rented to qualified defense workers in the Bucks county "critical defense area" only, it was announced by William J. Levitt, president of the firm.

Both FHA and Veterans Administration mortgage-insurance terms apply on the $9,990 homes, Mr. Levitt said. Down payments on this house will range from no cash for qualified veterans who also are certified as defense workers to $1,500 for those who are neither veteraps nor defense workers.

In all categories of government-insured loans the carrying charge will be approximately $60 per month. The rental charge for the two-bedroom homes will be $65 a month, the firm announced.

The Country Clubber has three bedrooms and two baths on the ground floor, with space for two more bedrooms and a bath in a large expansion attic. The 29-by-12 foot living-dining area is faced by a 29-foot wall-to-wall picture window. A wide variety of exterior designs and finishes, a magnificent two-way fireplace and dozens of built-in features stamp it as the most attractive home ever designed by Alfred Levitt.

The homes in the Country Club section, priced at $16,990, will be privately financed. These luxury homes will require a down payment of $4,950 for veterans with $92 a month carrying charge. Down payments for non-veterans will be $5,800 and their carrying charge will be $90 a month.

The Levittowner, a three-bedroom ranch home, will be available in a choice of four facades using a similar floor plan. Completely equipped with an all-electric kitchen and such luxury features as a three-way brick fireplace, double-duty room with a sliding wall, thermopane picture window, automatic radiant heat and recessed ceiling lighting, it will be fully landscaped. This home will soon be featured as the five-star house of the month in Better Homes and Gardens magazine.

Heavy construction work is under way in the huge development. Street, sidewalk, sewerage and water systems will be pushed forward throughout the winter months in preparation for a 5,000-home building program for 1952.

The three-year task of building a community for 70,000 people is planned for 1,500 rental units in one section, 2,000 homes in a separate country club section, and the rest of the community will consist of 12,500 homes in the $9,990 class.

The community planning features of the new town are without parallel. Some of them are: a playground for small children within easy walking distance of every home; elimination of through streets in residential areas; separation and screening of residential neighborhoods from main highways and business sections by feeder roads and shelter belts of trees and parks; location of community facilities—shopping centers, schools, churches and swimming pools—where they are easily accessible to the whole community; adequate provision for parking in business areas.

lights, be halted by some one, and then proceed without lights.

The barn is a large two-story unpainted structure.

Sgt. McCarr and a detail of Pennsylvania State Policemen, raided the premises about two o'clock, August. 19. Anthony Correale, one of the defendants, who was stationed in the lane, "waved" the State Police car down, Sgt. McCarr testified, and when he saw the State Troopers fled in the darkness.

Other details of State Police approached the barn through pig pens, cornfields and muddy acres.

August Loquintano was in the barn and Pacenski was found in the farm house, barefooted and with only trousers on.

Recorder of Deeds John W. Cooper, Doylestown, testified that he has examined the records in the Recorder of Deeds office and that there has been no conveyance, or date of purchase, by anyone from Pacenski since he bought the property in May, 1943.

State Trooper Andrew J. Kutney, Langhorne sub-station, testified he saw cars going into the Pacenski lane and that he and Private Thomas Marks went into a cornfield to keep out of sight.

Transforming the well of Court Room No. 1 into an imitation gambling casino, the Commonwealth's exhibits included a large, 15 by 5 foot green felt-topped dice table, with banking boards, croupiers, huge lights, a tub which contained refreshments and sandwiches and all the "props" that go with rolling dice and shooting craps.

Third Man Now On Trial For The Sklar Murder

This is the case in which the court some months ago refused a change of venue which had been sought by Lowrey's attorneys who wanted their client tried in another jurisdiction, on the grounds that his chances were hampered because of too much publicity.

The first two jurors drawn both happen to be women, and both were challenged by the Commonweath indicating that the prosecution does not favor a woman as foreman in a murder jury. The two ladies challenged were Mrs. Ruth Ervin, Cornwells Heights, and Mrs. Alice Smith Ewald, Morrisville.

Two new members were accepted.

The "white elephant" was received by Mrs. William Eisenbrey.

Officers received corsages of carnations.

Each member was presented with a silver pin with the lettering "Edgely Auxiliary Fire Co., No. 1".

The card party planned for December was cancelled.

Following the meeting, a birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. Theodore Stake. A large birthday cake was placed on each of two tables. Christmas gifts were exchanged. Four firemen served ice-cream, cake, tea and coffee to 38. Mrs. Clarence Kay served as refreshments chairman.

O Thou Captain of our souls! We come to Thee this day beseeching Thee to be with us in all our battles. This life being frought with problems as it is, we need Thy guidance and protection. Mrs. Wm. Doster Sails To Join Husband Abroad

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 — Mrs. Anna Lee Doster, wife of M/Sgt. William Doster, of 22 Woodside ave., Edgely, Pa., is among 322 Army wives who sailed Tuesday aboard the liner "Washington" for Europe where they will join their husbands in military installations throughout Germany and France.

The "Washington" was chartered by the army recently to overcome an increasing backlog of over 5,000 army dependants waiting for transportation to Europe.

Mrs. Doster and her daughter Nancy, age four, were among a group housed in three New York hotels while waiting for sailing time. The Red Cross here reported it watched, amused, fed, restrained and changed the youngsters while their frantic mothers were being fingerprinted, photographed and issued forms to be filled out.

Mrs. Doster and Nancy have been living in Wilmington, Del., and went to Edgely about a month ago to reside temporarily with M/Sgt. Doster's mother.

WARRIORS WIN OPENING GAME WITH ALUMNI

Having the lead from the start, the Bristol High Warriors opened their 1951-52 basketball season with a 51-44 triumph over the Alumni five last night on the local court.

Coach Ben Watson's minions outpassed and outscored the graduates from the opening whistle, amassing an 8-0 lead before "Ham" Konefal scored a foul for the Alumni. It took the Alumni team four minutes before it made a field goal.

The Alumni contingent was very erractic in its shooting, missing many set-ups. The losers had more shots at the nets than the high school lads but the lid was on for the former high school players. The Alumni team converted but 14 out of 35 foul tries.

Bristol did some excellent shooting from the floor, especially Hank Lucenti who hit the cords for seven double-deckers and a foul for 15 points. Harold Loud, up-coming sophomore, played a nice floor game in addition to ringing up nine points. Bob Strobele chipped in with 10 counters while Andy Accardi was good for eight, although he went out via the personal foul route in the third quarter.

Outstanding for the Alumni team was "Howie" Keys who played two quarters and registered 10 points. The combination of Keys Feole, Oriolo, Wallick, and Burton had the school boys on the run and twice cut deeply into high school leads.

Bristol had a 15-6 lead at the first quarter which was cut to 23-19 at half-time, the closest the Alumni came to Bristol's total. The score mounted to 40-31 at the close of the third quarter.

Bristol plays George School in varsity and junior varsity games on the home floor tomorrow night.

HEAR RECORDING OF INTERVIEW

Visitors at Exhibit Listen To Voice of Artist George Sotter

EXHIBIT AT CO. SEAT

A recorded interview with the artist is featured at the George Sotter exhibit of paintings at the County Art Gallery in Doylestown at Ashland and West streets.

All of the classes visiting the gallery will hear the voice of the artist giving the background of every one of the twenty-one paintings and also the several stained glass objects on exhibit.

The experiment in which George Sotter, of Holicong, is interviewed is proving very successful. The recording also, through the informal interview method, tells of the artist's earlier days in Pittsburgh and the influence of his first art teacher in that city's public schools. The reason why the Sotters came to Bucks County as well as the steps that led up to his painting of nocturnes are also explained.

Adult groups may take advantage of the recording by making advance reservations, so as not to conflict with meetings which are also held in the same room. All arrangements, which can be made by telephone, should be made with the County Superintendent of Schools' office, Doylestown.

The recording was made under the supervision of Raymond W. Lloyd, County Advisor Agricultural Education.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1951 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—The Congress of the United States should sue to collect the money wasted by Former Senator Millard Tydings during his investigation of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy's charges of communists in the government.

If it could get the money back, Congress then ought to turn it over to Senator Pat McCarran, whose Senate internal security sub-committee is doing the job Tydings failed to accomplish.

Tydings alone, of course, is not responsible for the entire waste of the funds. His two compatriots, Senators Brien McMahon, of Connecticut, and Theodore F. Green, of Rhode Island, were equally anxious to smother the facts. It would be simple to collect from McMahon and Green. Congress could simply withhold their share from their paychecks.

It must be recalled that the senate instructed Tydings to investigate Reds in the government, both past and present. The committee failed on both counts, as the McCarran investigation proves.

For instance, the Nevada senator's sub-committee on Internal Security has so far heard testimony connecting 43 persons labeled as communists with the Institute of Pacific Relations. Over half of the 43 worked for the Federal government at one time or another, and several, who now stand accused, are presently on the government payroll.

The Institute of Pacific Relations is Secretary of State Dean Acheson's right arm on Asian foreign policy. The IPR, naturally, says it was never dominated by the Russian lovers, but I leave it to you. If your own club had 43 Reds helping to run the show wouldn't it be reasonable to assume their views had some impact on club activities? In C.I.O. union after union, it took only three or four Moscow comrades to order the strikes, start the violence and conduct the sabotage.

But the 43 identified as Reds tell only half of the story. Robert Morris, counsel for the IPR subcommittee, has the names of an additional 39 suspected comrades who hung around the IPR. And, if the Morris batting average holds up, they'll all be identified as party members.

McCarran has called as witnesses two citizens with a lot of know-how on who is and who is not involved in the communist conspiracy operating in the U. S. They are Whittaker Chambers, one-time communist espionage agent who put Alger Hiss in jail, and Alexander Barmine, a former Russian diplomat and general, now in charge of the Russian unit of the Voice of America. Louis Budenz and Elizabeth Bentley also have testified, but Tydings did give them the benefit of acknowledging their existence during his phony probe. What they had to say to the Tydings committee, of course, was ignored, although both know the Russian espionage network in the U. S. A. from scratch.

The real McCarran sleeper, however, is William Martin Canning, former professor at Xavier University in Cincinnati, O. Canning was a communist at Columbia University and City College of New York. Here is a part of Canning's testimony about one recent government employee who has been accused of being a communist:

Canning: "There was one other who belonged to the same Columbia University unit Theodore Geiger."

Senator Ferguson: "Was he a communist?"

Canning: "Yes; he was. I knew him both at City College where he was a student, and later at Columbia University where he continued his studies."

Senator Ferguson: "Where did he come into the government?"

Canning: "He was, I believe, deputy administrator of ECA, although I am not certain of his title."

Senator Ferguson: "Do you know whether he is in government now?"

Canning: "I have been informed that he resigned, not very long ago, several months ago."

Well, there is one the Tydings whitewash covered up. Geiger was on the payroll when Senator McCarthy started his private war on Reds in the government. But the Tydings committee avoided mentioning his name. There are others, and from time to time I'll comment, with pleasure, on who they are and where they worked on the Federal payroll.

Council Rock District

NEWTOWN, Dec. 5—The pupils of the Council Rock senior high school enjoyed the motion picture "I Was a Male War Bride," in assembly on Thursday. Two periods were used for its showing. The next full length "movie" will be shown on Jan. 3rd, the day school opens after the Christmas vacation. It is entitled "Count of Monte Cristo."

On the evening of November 28 the Guidance Council met at the home of Norman Kratz to discuss plans of teachers workshops for the coming year. On Wednesday, Mr. Kratz was on the evaluoting committee of Frankford high school, and Raymond Gilbert was on for Thursday.

On Nov. 30th, 32 girls were initiated into the Future Homemakers of America.

The F. H. A. brings together state groups interested in and working toward better home and family living, provides opportunities to share in solving problems important to home life, and sponsors group projects, local, state and national in scope.

Officers are: Vivian Miller, president; Joan Andreas, vice-president; Mary Lou Watts, parliamentarian; Zelda Conner, secretary; Mary Ann Weaver, treasurer.

Because it is a new organization Miss Grace Riemard, Montgomery and Bucks County homemaking advisor, attended initiation ceremonies.

Members are: Marion Heath, Ella Mae Carr, Helen Homa, Eleanor Glass, Vivian Miller, Helen Thompson, Jean Eno, Mary Ann Weaver, Mary Lou Watts, Joan Andress, Zelda Conner, Mary Keller, Shirley Roth, Catherine Perkins, Ann Bellmeyer, Shirley Conrad, Barbara Luff, Sandy Taylor, Esther Bellmeyer, Charlotte Stout, Cora Buckman, Helen Rorer, Gerry Walters, Alvina Porter, Lynn Tichenor, Elizabeth Porter, Susan Rounsavill, Marion Whitworth, Margaret Weir.

The science club is one of the new clubs organized this year. It is open to 8th grade students. This club is composed of the following students: "Bob" Kirk, Keith Eveland, Russell Schaedley, "Bob" Mace, Vincent Flatch, Winsor Eveland, "Bob" Bartholomew, John Holbert, "Bob" Kench, "Dan" Sokol, and Mr. Hengst, advisor.

Members are working on individual projects that must be finished next spring and which they hope to enter in the annual science fair, at Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

The projects must be the work of the students. They will be judged in the junior high school section. Prizes will be awarded to students at the close of the fair.

The individual projects are: "Bob" Kirk, different lenses; Vincent Flatch, lift pump; "Bob" Mace, centrifugal pump; Russell Schaedley, water conservation; "Bob" Kench, miniature electric chair; John Holbert, Earth's layers; Winsor Eveland, model of a cow; Keith Eveland, model of a volcano; "Bob" Bartholomew, force pump; "Dan" Sokol, construction of a B-29.

The student council will attend the tri-county conference on December 7th at Lower Moreland high school.

On Dec. 20th, Council Rock chorus will present a Christmas musical.

Constance Shick will direct six numbers by junior high chorus; and the senior chorus will give five numbers. There will be five selections by the combined choruses, with M. Esposito conducting. E. Leonhardt is to be pianist. Brass group will include: F. Beurle, R. Dager, R. Mason, E. Kenderdine, and T. Yamamoto.

Pennsbury District

"Winter Wonderland" will be the theme of the annual Senior ball, the first formal dance to be held in the new gymnasium of Pennsbury High School, Saturday evening, January 29th.

The ball was originally scheduled to take place Friday, December 28, but so much uncertainty surrounded the completion date of the gymnasium that the class voted to postpone the dance until January.

In charge of decorations are Don Williams, chairman; Jeff Watts, Dolores McGee, Janet Tomlinson, Gerry Carver.

In charge of the orchestra selection are: Kay Anastia, Carolyn Leanoard, Louise Grimes, Elaine Sixtus, Jane Applegate, Dolores McGee, Nadya Freidl, Mary Ann Baheika, Pete Leigh, Joe Marion, Gene Cadwallader, Joe Parto, Bill Anderson, Ralph Wayman and Carolyn Glatz.

A "Holly Hop" will be sponsored in the Makefield Gymnasium, December 14, between 8.30 and 11.30 p. m., by the staff of the Pennsman, yearbook of Pennsbury High School.

Bob Scammell and his orchestra will supply the syncopation in an atmosphere of evergreens, holly, and tinsel.

The dance, at which refreshments of doughnuts and soda will be served, is being held to help finance the yearbook's cost.
